1

Diwali is the Festival of Lights. It is celebrated by millions of people in India and around the world.

2

Diwali comes in October or November, on the darkest night of the month, when there is a new moon.

3

A diya is a small clay lamp with a cotton wick. Families light rows of diyas at doors and windows.

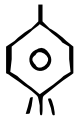
4

A rangoli is a colorful floor pattern made with colored powder, rice or flower petals to welcome guests.

5

People share sweets called mithai, like round ladoos, barfi and swirly jalebi.

6



An akash kandil is a paper lantern, often shaped like a star, hung outside the home.

7

Orange and yellow marigolds are strung into garlands and torans to decorate doorways.

8

Families clean and decorate their homes, wear new clothes, give gifts and visit friends.

9

Many families watch fireworks or light sparklers together on Diwali night.
